

SPEAKER AND MODERATOR BIOGRAPHIES

Rodger BAKER, STRATFOR

Mr. Rodger Baker is the Vice President of Strategic Intelligence and Asia-Pacific Analysis at STRATFOR, a geopolitical intelligence firm that has provided strategic analysis and forecasting to individuals and organizations around the world for over 20 years. At STRATFOR, Mr. Baker writes and oversees the production of articles for the company's website and special reports for clients around the world, keeping them informed of events of vital interest to their businesses and organizations. He was one of the first to voice concerns about the gathering difficulties for the Chinese economy, analyzed the security and counterterrorism issues in the run up to the Beijing Olympic Games, and the threat of Islamist militancy in China. More recently, he has focused on the geopolitical implications of U.S. shale natural gas production, global water scarcity and battery technology and nanotechnology development. Mr. Baker is regularly interviewed by major media, including The Economist, The New York Times, Reuters, CNBC, The Chosun Ilbo, and China Daily. Before joining STRATFOR, Mr. Baker studied and worked in South Korea and graduated with honors from Southampton College, Long Island University and received an M.A. in Military History at Norwich University in Vermont.

Joseph S. BERMUDEZ, Jr., AllSource Analysis

Mr. Joseph Bermudez, Jr., is the co-founder of and Chief Analytics Officer of AllSource Analysis, a commercial satellite imagery-based intelligence company that transforms unique content into actionable intelligence for both the public and private sectors, and is a regular contributor for 38 North, a web-based resource on North Korea at the US-Korea Institute at Johns Hopkins University. He has served as the Senior All-Source Analyst for DigitalGlobe's Analysis Center, a Senior Analyst for HIS Jane's, and publisher and editor of Korean People's Army (KPA) Journal, among other positions. Mr. Bermudez, Jr., has consulted to and lectured at numerous academic and government institutions around the world, including the United Nations, the U.S. Congress, U.S. National Defense University, U.S. Naval Postgraduate School, Stanford and Columbia Universities, the Israel Defense Forces, and the Republic of Korea National Defense College on North Korean military and security affairs. He has authored four books, including Shield of the Great Leader: The Armed Forces of North Korea and North Korean Special Forces, 2nd Edition, and over 300 articles and reports on North Korean military and security issues.

James BOUTILIER, Canada Department of National Defence

Dr. James Boutilier is the Special Advisor in the International Engagement section at Canada's Maritime Forces Pacific (MARPAF) Headquarters in Esquimalt, British Columbia. He is responsible for advising the Commander of Maritime Forces Pacific on defence and foreign policy issues and maritime security in the Indo-Pacific region. Prior to his appointment at MARPAF, Dr. Boutilier spent 24 years at the Royal Roads Military College (RRMC) in Victoria as Head of the History Department, and then as Dean of Arts. He also taught at the University of the South Pacific in Suva, Fiji, from 1969-71. Dr. Boutilier lectures regularly at Canadian Forces College, NATO Defense College, Australian Defence College, National Defense University of the Philippines, and Bahria University in Karachi. He participates on a regular basis in the International Maritime Defence Exhibition (IMDEX), the ASEAN Regional Forum Conference on National Defence Colleges, the Asia-Pacific Roundtable meetings of the International Institute for Strategic Studies, the Shangri-La Dialogue, and the Royal Australian Navy Seapower conference. Dr. Boutilier earned his Ph.D. in History from the University of London, and holds a M.A. in History from McMaster University.

Randy BRANDENBURG, Raytheon

Mr. Randy Brandenburg is the Senior Director for Naval Strategic Initiatives at Raytheon, where he is responsible for developing Raytheon's long-term naval programs. He joined Raytheon in 1993, during which he led the program to modernize and upgrade U.S. Space Command's Air & Space Operations & Surveillance Systems, and was engineering/project manager of software development for the Strategic Defense Initiative. Mr. Brandenburg briefly left Raytheon in 2001 to work as the Boston Globe's Vice President of Product Development & Technology, and upon his return to Raytheon in 2004, led the software development team for the DDG-1000 Zumwalt-class destroyer project for the U.S. Navy. More recently, he has headed Seapower's Integrated Mission Systems, which provides surface warfare sensors and combat systems for the U.S. and international navies, and Seapower's Undersea Systems, which develops undersea surveillance, ant-submarine warfare, and mine warfare suites, also for the U.S. and international navies. Mr. Brandenburg earned a B.Sc. in Engineering Mechanics from the U.S. Air Force Academy and a M.B.A. from Babson College.

Ambassador Elizabeth BUENSUCESO, Philippines Department of Foreign Affairs

Ambassador Elizabeth Buensuceso is the Ambassador/Permanent Representative of the Philippines to the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN). Amb. Buensuceso has served with the Philippines Department of Foreign Affairs for 35 during which she has been Ambassador to Norway (cross-accredited to Denmark and Iceland), and Ambassador to Laos. Her domestic postings include managing Philippines-Europe relations, stints in the ASEAN, economic diplomacy, and political policy offices. In 2017, Amb. Buensuceso will assume the Chair of the Committee of Permanent Representatives, which is tasked with overseeing the external relations of ASEAN and the operations of the ASEAN Secretariat, the ASEAN Connectivity Coordinating Committee, and ASEAN Institute of Peace and Reconciliation. She holds Masters in English and Asian Studies, and graduated magna cum laude with a B.A. in English.

Stephen CARMEL, Maersk Line Limited

Mr. Stephen Carmel is the Senior Vice President of Maritime Services at Maersk Line Limited (MLL), where he has full responsibility for MLL's Gray Fleet business unit. Previously, he held positions in operations and finance for U.S. Marine Management, Inc. and MLL. Mr. Carmel began his career sailing as a deck officer and Master, primarily on tankers for Maritime Overseas Corporation and Military Sealift Command. He graduated from the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy in 1979. He is a member of the Chief of Naval Operations Executive Panel, a member of the Advisory Board for the Center for American Sea Power at the Hudson Institute, and was a 2009 Senior Fellow at the Homeland Security Policy Institute and George Washington University. He also holds an M.A. in Economics, and a M.B.A. in International Finance from Old Dominion University, and is currently a Ph.D. Candidate in International Studies, with an emphasis on International Political Economy, at Old Dominion.

Andrew FORBES, University of Wollongong

Mr. Andrew Forbes is an Honorary Senior Fellow at the Australian National Centre for Ocean Resources & Security at the University of Wollongong, as well as a Research Fellow at the Centre for Foreign Policy Studies at Dalhousie University. He has held several positions at the Australian Department of Defence over his 30-year career, most recently serving as Deputy Director (Research) at the Sea Power Centre, the Royal Australian Navy's think tank. Mr. Forbes has edited 19 books on naval and maritime issues, and was the editor of the Journal of the Australian Naval Institute and the Australian Journal of Maritime and Ocean Affairs. He has represented Australia both at the Council for Security Cooperation in the Asia Pacific's maritime security study group, and the International Sea Lines of Communication Group. Mr. Forbes holds Master's degrees in defence studies, maritime policy, and public administration.

Captain George GALDORISI (ret'd), U.S. Navy

Captain George Galdorisi is Director for Strategic Assessments and Technical Futures at SPAWAR Systems Center Pacific. Prior to joining SSC Pacific, he completed a 30-year career as a naval aviator, culminating in 14 years of consecutive service as executive officer, commanding officer, commodore, and chief of staff, including two aviation commands and two shipboard commands. His last operational assignment spanned five years as Chief of Staff for Cruiser-Destroyer Group Three, embarked in the USS Carl Vinson and USS Abraham Lincoln for deployments to the Western Pacific and Arabian Gulf. Mr. Galdorisi has written 10 books, including the New York Times best seller Act of Valor, the novelization of the Relativity Media film, and The Kissing Sailor, which proved the identity of the two principals in Alfred Eisenstaedt's famous WWII photograph. Additionally, he has published more than three hundred articles in professional journals and newspapers, including Sloan Management Review, MIT Management, Harvard International Review, Ocean Development and International Law, Naval Institute Proceedings, Wall Street Journal, Naval War College Review, and Joint Forces Quarterly. Mr. Galdorisi graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy and holds a Master's Degree in Oceanography from the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School, and a Master's Degree in International Relations from the University of San Diego.

Rear-Admiral Roger GIROUARD (Royal Canadian Navy, ret'd), Canadian Coast Guard

Rear-Admiral Roger Girouard assumed his current responsibilities as the Canadian Coast Guard's (CCG) Assistant Commissioner for the Western Region in May 2013, which involves supporting one thousand CCG personnel in their efforts to safeguard Canada's west coast. Prior to serving with the CCG, he served over three decades in the Royal Canadian Navy, with leadership positions including Commander Maritime Forces Pacific, Commander Canadian Fleet Pacific, and Commanding Officer of HMC Ships Chaleur, Miramichi, and Iroquois. He was also head of operations in Halifax during the domestic Operation Persistence, the Canadian military's response to the 1998 Swissair 111 crash off Nova Scotia. RAdm. Girouard's overseas deployments include Canada's Operation FRICTION for the 1990-91 Gulf War, head of Canada's contribution to Operation TOUCAN in Timor L'Este, and commander of Combined Task Force 151 in the Arabian Gulf. RAdm. Girouard graduated from the U.S. Naval War College in 1992, and earned a Master's in Leadership & Training from Royal Roads University in 2002.

Bonnie GLASER, Center for Strategic & International Studies

Ms. Bonnie Glaser is a senior adviser for Asia and the Director of the China Power Project at the Center for Strategic & International Studies (CSIS), where she works on issues related to Chinese foreign and security policy. She is also currently a board member of the U.S. Committee for Security Cooperation in the Pacific, a member of both the Council on Foreign Relations and the Institute of International Strategic Studies, and is concomitantly a non-resident fellow with the Lowy Institute in Sydney, and a senior associate with CSIS Pacific Forum. Prior to joining CSIS, she served as a consultant for various U.S. government offices, including the Departments of Defense and State. Ms. Glaser has written extensively on various aspects of Chinese foreign policy, including Sino-U.S. relations, U.S.-China military ties, cross-Strait relations, China's relations with Japan and Korea, and Chinese perspectives on missile defence and multilateral security in Asia. Her writings have been published in Washington Quarterly, China Quarterly, Asian Survey, International Security, Contemporary Southeast Asia, Korean Journal of Defense Analysis, and New York Times. Ms. Glaser received her B.A. in Political Science from Boston University and her M.A. with concentrations in International Economics and Chinese Studies from the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies.

Captain Harry HARSCH (Royal Canadian Navy, ret'd), Navy League of Canada

Captain Harry Harsch is the National Vice President of Maritime Affairs at the Navy League of Canada, the Chairman of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Education Foundation, and presently works as the Chief of Staff for the Canadian Corps of Commissionaires. Prior to his current post at Navy League, Capt. Harsch had a distinguished career in the Royal Canadian Navy (RCN), during which he served on HMC Ships Restigouche, Kootenay, Thunder, and Saskatchewan, was Executive Officer of the destroyer Iroquois, and commanded the minesweeper Cowichan, the frigate Fredericton, and the destroyer Athabaskan. Capt. Harsch's shore postings include flag lieutenant to Commander Maritime Forces Pacific, and Executive Assistant to the Deputy Chief of the Defence Staff and Director Military Careers (Navy) at National Defence Headquarters. His overseas deployments include six months in the Arabian Gulf for Operation Apollo, Canada's contribution to the international effort against terrorism, and he culminated his career as Naval Advisor at the Canadian Defence Liaison Staff in London, with a cross-accreditation as the Canadian Defence Attaché to Denmark. Capt. Harsch earned a B.A. in Political Science from the University of Ottawa, and is a graduate of the Canadian Forces Command and Staff College.

Ambassador Arif HAVAS Oegroseno, Indonesian Coordinating Ministry for Maritime Affairs

Ambassador Arif Havas Oegroseno is currently the Deputy Coordinating Minister in the Coordinating Ministry for Maritime Affairs of the Republic of Indonesia. He has served in the Indonesian foreign service for over 25 years, including as the Ambassador to Belgium, Luxembourg, the European Union, and the World Customs Organization. In 2008, Amb. Havas was appointed as Director-General for Law and International Treaties at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and in 2010, he presided as President of the 20th Meeting of the State Parties to the UN Convention on the Law of the Sea. Ambassador Havas has earned a Master of Laws from Harvard Law School, and a Bachelor of Law from Diponegoro University in Indonesia, with a focus on International Public Law.

Captain Peter HAYNES (U.S. Navy, ret'd), Center for Strategic and Budgetary Assessments

Dr. Peter Haynes is a Senior Fellow at the Center for Strategic and Budgetary Assessments specializing in grand strategy, maritime and naval strategy, strategy and operational concept development, and special operations and irregular warfare. Prior to retiring from the Navy in 2016 as a captain, he served as the Deputy Director, Strategy, Plans, and Policy at U.S. Special Operations Command, and the Director, Strategy and Plans for Combined Joint Task Force – Horn of Africa. Operationally, he flew the E-2C Hawkeye command-and-control aircraft with Carrier Airborne Early Warning Squadron (VAW) 116, including deployments in support of Operations Desert Storm and Southern Watch, and with VAW-112 as the commanding officer, which included a deployment in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom. Dr. Haynes is the author of the 2015 book, Toward a New Maritime Strategy: American Naval Thinking in the Post-Cold War Era. He holds a Ph.D. in Security Studies and a M.A. with Distinction in National Security Affairs from the Naval Postgraduate School.

David HAZEN, Defence Research & Development Canada

Mr. David Hazen is the Director of Science & Technology for Joint Force Development at Defence Research & Development Canada (DRDC) HQ, where he is responsible for cyber, space, and intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance programs. He joined DRDC Atlantic in 1999, where he helped develop sonar and Arctic technologies, and served as Science Advisor to the Commander of Combined Task Force 150. Mr. Hazen was promoted to Deputy Director of DRDC Atlantic in 2011, full Director in 2013, and in 2015 assumed his current role at DRDC headquarters in Ottawa. He also served 15 years in the Oceanography Department at Dalhousie University, where he researched boundary layer fluid dynamics and fish larvae tracking, among other projects. Mr. Hazen earned a M.P.A. from the Canadian Forces College, a B.Sc. in Physics from the University of King's College, and a B.Eng. in Electrical Engineering from Dalhousie University.

Robert HUEBERT, University of Calgary

Dr. Rob Huebert is an Associate Professor in the Department of Political Science at the University of Calgary, where he specializes in international relations, international maritime law, circumpolar relations, and Canadian defence and foreign affairs policy. He previously served as the Associate Director of the Centre for Military and Strategic Studies at the University of Calgary, and taught at Memorial University, Dalhousie University, and the University of Manitoba. In November 2010, Dr. Huebert was appointed as a member to the Canadian Polar Commission (now renamed Canada Polar Knowledge), he is a research fellow with the Canadian Global Affairs Institute, and he sits on the board of the Van Horne Institute. His most recent book, co-written with Whitney Lackenbauer and Franklyn Griffiths, is Canada and the Changing Arctic, and his other work has appeared in International Journal, Canadian Foreign Policy, Isuma-Canadian Journal of Policy Research and Canadian Military Journal. He was co-editor of Commercial Satellite Imagery and United Nations Peacekeeping and Breaking Ice: Canadian Integrated Ocean Management in the Canadian North. Dr. Huebert received his Ph.D. from Dalhousie University, and holds a Master of Arts from Carlton University.

Captain KITAGAWA Keizo, Japan Maritime Self-Defense Force

Captain Kitagawa Keizo is the Director of the National Security & Strategic Studies Office at the Japan Maritime Self-Defence Force Command & Staff College. Prior to his current post, he served as the Defense Attaché to the United Kingdom, and Commanding Office of the anti-submarine warfare destroyer JS Matsuyuki, among many other positions. Capt. Kitagawa's research interests include naval strategy, operations, and history, and he contributed a chapter on naval intellectualism and the Imperial Japanese Navy to the June 2016 book Strategy and the Sea. Capt. Kitagawa is currently a Ph.D. candidate at Keio University, and has earned a Master's in Security Studies from the National Defense Academy of Japan, and B.Sc. from the U.S. Naval Academy.

Conor KENNEDY, U.S. Naval War College

Mr. Conor Kennedy is a research assistant in the China Maritime Studies Institute (CMSI) at the U.S. Naval War College in Newport, Rhode Island. Since joining CMSI, Mr. Kennedy has co-authored several articles with Naval War College Professor Andrew Erickson on China's maritime militia, including a chapter on China's maritime militia for the Center for Naval Analyses conference on "China as a Maritime Power", as well as a series on Hainan Province's Maritime Militia for the Center for International Maritime Security. The bulk of his research focuses on Asia-Pacific maritime affairs and utilizes a variety of Chinese-language sources. He received his B.A. from the University of Massachusetts Amherst and Master of Arts from the Johns Hopkins University – Nanjing University Center for Chinese and American Studies. Mr. Kennedy was also a National Security Education Program David L. Boren Fellow to China in 2014.

Brigadier General James HIRAI (U.S. Army, ret'd), Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies

Brigadier General James Hirai is the Deputy Director of the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies (APCSS) in Honolulu, Hawaii. BGen. Hirai joined APCSS in 2006 after over three decades of active duty with the U.S. Army, during which he served as Special Assistant to the Commander, Combined Forces Command - Afghanistan, and Deputy Commandant of U.S. Army Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth. His Indo-Pacific experience includes service as Commander of U.S. Army Alaska, Chief of Staff of U.S. Army Pacific, Commander of the U.S. Army Garrison, and two tours on the Commander U.S. Pacific Command staff. BGen. Hirai earned a Master's in Education from

Troy State University, a B.A. in Education from the University of Hawaii, and is a graduate of the U.S. Armed Forces Staff College and the U.S. Army War College.

Rear-Admiral Art MCDONALD, Royal Canadian Navy

Rear-Admiral Art McDonald is the Commander of Maritime Forces Pacific and Joint Task Force Pacific, having assumed his responsibilities in July 2016. Prior to taking up his current post, RAdm McDonald served as Director General Naval Force Development, Director Naval Requirements, and Executive Secretary to the Chief of the Maritime Staff at National Defence Headquarters. His sea-going service includes Executive Officer of HMCS Regina, Commanding Officer of Halifax, and the Maritime Component Commander of Canadian Joint Task Force Haiti, the Canadian military's humanitarian response to the devastating 2010 earthquake in Haiti. RAdm. McDonald holds a Bachelor's of Military & Strategic Studies and Master's of Defence Studies, both from the Royal Military College of Canada, and is a graduate of the Command & Staff Course and the National Security Programme at the Canadian Forces College.

Rear Admiral MIOR Rosdi Jaafar, Royal Malaysian Navy

Rear Admiral Mior Rosdi Jaafar is currently the Commander of Naval Education and Training for the Royal Malaysian Navy. Prior to his current posting, he served as Regional Commander and Assistant Chief of Staff of Operations and Exercises of the Royal Malaysian Navy, and Principal Advisor on South China Sea issues to the Chief of the Malaysian Armed Forces. RAdm. Mior's focus areas are maritime security in the Strait of Malacca, Sulu Sea, and South China Sea. He has earned a Post-Graduate Diploma in Human Resources Management from the University of Humber, a Post-Graduate Diploma in Engineering Business Management from the University of Warwick, and a Master's in Defence and Strategic Studies from Deakin University in Australia. RAdm. Mior is also a graduate of the Malaysian Armed Forces Staff College, the U.S. Naval War College, and the China National Defence University.

Major General A.N.M. MUNIRUZZAMAN (Bangladesh Army, ret'd), Bangladesh Institute of Peace & Security Studies

Major General Muniruzzaman is the President and CEO of the Bangladesh Institute of Peace & Security Studies (BIPSS), a non-party, non-profit organization dedicated to analyzing a range of traditional and non-traditional security issues across the Indo-Pacific, including counter-terrorism and Chinese foreign policy. In addition to leading BIPSS, MGen. Muniruzzaman is the Chairman of the Global Military Advisory Council on Climate Change, and is a founding member of the Non-Traditional Security - Asia consortium at Nanyang Technological University in Singapore. During his 38 years of military service, MGen. Muniruzzaman served as the head of the Bangladesh Army's Artillery Corps, the Military Secretary to the President of Bangladesh, and commander of both an infantry brigade and a division. He was commissioned from the Pakistan Military Academy, is a graduate of the National University of Bangladesh, the Malaysian Armed Forces Staff College, and the U.S. Naval War College.

Justin NANKIVELL, Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies

Dr. Justin Nankivell is the Associate Dean for Academics at the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies (APCSS). In this position, Dr. Nankivell is responsible for overseeing the academic curricula that make up APCSS in-residence courses and executive education programming, including course and workshop execution, faculty coordination and program assessment. Prior to his current appointment, he served as an Associate Professor at APCSS, during which he led development of the Center's Security Sector Development program, led APCSS' flagship Advanced Security Cooperation course, and lectured and wrote on various security issues, including international maritime law and its role in the South China Sea and the Arctic. Dr. Nankivell earned his Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of British Columbia, and a Masters of Public International Law at the University of Nottingham.

Kerry Lynn NANKIVELL, Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies

Ms. Kerry Nankivell joined the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies (APCSS) in July 2008, where she focuses on Indo-Pacific maritime strategy and critical thinking in strategy development. Prior to her arrival at APCSS, she served on the Admiral's Special Advisor (Policy) staff at Maritime Forces Pacific Headquarters. Ms. Nankivell has contributed to four major publications, including American and Russian Perspectives on Security and Cooperation in the Asia-Pacific and Understanding Global Terror, and her writing has been featured in industry journals such as Maritime Warfare Bulletin, Foreign Policy, and Journal of the Australian Naval Institute. Ms. Nankivell earned a Bachelor of Arts (Honours) in Political Science from the University of British Columbia, and a Master of Philosophy in International Relations from the University of Cambridge.

NGUYEN Thi Lan Anh, Diplomatic Academy of Vietnam

Dr. Nguyen Thi Lan Anh is Deputy Director General of the Institute for East Sea (South China Sea) Studies and Vice Dean of the International Law Faculty of the Diplomatic Academy of Vietnam. She is responsible for analyzing the legal aspects of the South China Sea disputes, as well as other issues related to ocean law and policy. In this role, she offers legal analysis and advisory opinions to political, diplomatic, and security deliberations. Dr. Nguyen often participates and leads Vietnamese delegation to Track 1.5 and Track 2 conferences and workshop in order to engage other regional countries on the ocean law and policy. She formerly worked as a Research Fellow at the Center for International Law at the National University of Singapore, and at the Japan Institute of International Affairs. Dr. Nguyen earned her Ph.D. in International Law from the University of Bristol, and holds a Master of Laws from the University of Sheffield.

Commander Jonathan ODOM, U.S. Navy, Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies

Commander Jonathan Odom joined the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies (APCSS) in August 2015. While at APCSS, he has taught and published on matters of international law and maritime security. As a judge advocate in the U.S. Navy, Cdr. Odom is a licenced attorney who has provided legal advice on matters of international and operational law to military commanders (both U.S. and multinational), headquarters staffs, and military forces around the world. His operational deployments include serving as Chief of Operational Law to the Commander U.S. Joint Support Force for Operation Tomodachi following the March 2011 tsunami in Japan, Chief of Operational Law to the Commander Multi National Force - West in al-Anbar province, Iraq, Assistant Legal Advisor to Commander NATO Kosovo Force in Pristina, Kosovo, Legal Advisor to Commander U.S. Amphibious Squadron Eleven, and Assistant Legal Advisor to Commander U.S. Carrier Strike Group Five. Cdr. Odom's shore assignments include serving as Oceans Policy Advisor in the Office of the U.S. Secretary of Defense, Deputy Legal Advisor at U.S. Pacific Command Headquarters, and Attorney-Advisor in the International and Operational Law Division of the Office of the U.S. Navy Judge Advocate General in the Pentagon. He has also taught at the U.S. Naval Justice School, the U.S. Naval War College, and the U.S. Naval Submarine Officer School. Cdr. Odom earned a B.A. with Distinction in History from Duke University, a J.D. from Wake Forest University, and Master of Laws with Distinction from Georgetown University.

Harsh PANT, King's College London

Dr. Harsh Pant is a Professor of International Relations with the Department of Defence Studies and the King's India Institute at King's College London, as well as a Non-Resident Fellow at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington, D.C. In his previous academic appointments, Dr. Pant was a Visiting Professor at the Indian Institute of Management in Bangalore, a Visiting Fellow at the Center for the Advanced Study of India at the University of Pennsylvania and a Visiting Scholar at the Center for International Peace and Security Studies at McGill University. His most recent books include “The US Pivot and Indian Foreign Policy”, “Handbook of Indian Defence Policy”, and “The US-India Nuclear Pact: Policy, Process and Great Power Politics”, which he is a regular contributor to media such as the Wall Street Journal, Japan Times, and The Diplomat. Dr. Pant received his Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Notre Dame, and a Master of Arts and a Master of Philosophy from Jawaharlal Nehru University.

Alessio PATALANO, King’s College London

Dr. Alessio Patalano is a Senior Lecturer in War Studies in the Department of War Studies, King’s College London, who specializes in Japanese naval history, and strategy and contemporary maritime issues in East Asia. He is also the Director of the Asian Security and Warfare Research Group and Research Associate at the King’s China Institute, and since 2006 has been a Visiting Lecturer at the Italian Naval War College. In Japan, Dr. Patalano was a Visiting Scholar at Aoyama Gakuin University and at the National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies (GRIPS), both in Tokyo, and is currently an Adjunct Fellow at the Institute of Contemporary Asian Studies, Temple University Japan. He received both his Ph.D. and Master of Arts in War Studies from King’s College London, as well as a Master of Advanced Studies from the École des hautes études en sciences sociales in Paris.

Alexandre SHELDON-DUPLAIX, Service historique de la défense

Alexandre Sheldon-Duplaix has worked as a researcher for the French Navy Historical Service since 1999, and since 2001, has also lectured on Russian and Asian issues at the Paris War College and the Brest Naval Academy. Mr. Sheldon-Duplaix served as a Reserve Ensign for his French military service, from 1987-88, before joining the French Ministry of Defense as a civilian analyst in 1989. He has written or co-written five contracted studies and seven books, including “Hide and Seek”, with the late Captain (US Navy) Peter Huchthausen, on Soviet and Western threat perceptions at sea during the Cold War, and two histories of aircraft carriers and submarines, with an emphasis on strategy, technology, and resources. He is a graduate of the Paris Institute of Political Science (Public Service) and the Sorbonne Paris I/Paris IV (History, Political Science).

Admiral Scott SWIFT, U.S. Navy

Admiral Scott Swift is the 35th Commander of the U.S. Navy’s Pacific Fleet, a position he assumed in May 2015. Prior to taking command of Pacific Fleet, Adm. Swift worked as Director of Navy Staff at the Pentagon, Director of Operations at U.S. Pacific Command, Commanding Officer of the F/A-18E/F Super Hornet Strike Fighter Squadron 122, and Commander of Strike Fighter Weapons School, Pacific. His operational deployments include Commander U.S. Seventh Fleet, Commander Carrier Strike Group Nine, and Deputy Commander of Naval Forces at U.S. Central Command, during which he participated in Operations Iraqi Freedom and Enduring Freedom. Adm. Swift received his Master’s degree from the U.S. Naval War College, and a Bachelor’s degree from San Diego State University.

Carlyle THAYER, University of New South Wales

Dr. Carl Thayer is an Emeritus Professor in the School of Humanities and Social Sciences of the University of New South Wales (UNSW) satellite at the Australian Defence Force Academy in Canberra. In addition to teaching at UNSW, Dr. Thayer has lectured at the Royal Military College - Duntroon and the Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies. His academic appointments include Distinguished Visiting Professor at the School of Advanced International Studies at Johns Hopkins University, Distinguished Visiting Professor at Ohio University, and positions Harvard’s Center for International Affairs, the Department of Political Science at Yale University, and the International Institute for Strategic Studies in London. Dr. Thayer is a regular contributor on Vietnamese and Southeast Asian affairs to The Diplomat, and heads the Thayer Consultancy, which provides strategic analysis on regional events for both public and private clients. Dr. Thayer earned his Ph.D. from Australian National University, and his Master of Arts in Southeast Asian Studies from Yale.

Commodore Kelly WILLIAMS (Royal Canadian Navy, ret'd), General Dynamics Canada

Commodore Kelly Williams is the Senior Director for Strategy and Government Relations for General Dynamics Canada. Prior to joining General Dynamics in 2012, Cmdre. Williams served in the Royal Canadian Navy for over 36 years, during which he worked as Director Maritime Strategy, Assistant Chief of Maritime Staff, and Director of Maritime Strategy. Of note is his appointment as Director of General Strategy at National Defence Headquarters, where he was tasked with development of the 2008 Canada First Defence Strategy. Cmdre. Williams' offshore postings include serving as Canadian Defence Attaché to the Canadian High Commission to the United Kingdom, and two extended Arabian Gulf deployments. He is a graduate of the Canadian Forces Staff College, and has completed a Master's of Business Administration.

Senior Captain ZHANG Junshe, People's Liberation Army Navy

Senior Captain Zhang Junshe is a Senior Research Fellow at the People's Liberation Army Navy's (PLAN) Naval Research Institute. His work focuses on maritime issues, naval strategy, and naval operations, including in the South China Sea, on which he has commented for CCTV America. From 1982 to 2000, Snr. Capt. Zhang served as Executive Officer on a minesweeper, and as a section chief in the PLAN headquarters. From 2009 to 2011, he was the Chinese representative for the Study Group on Naval Enhancement for the Council on Security Cooperation in the Asia-Pacific, better known as CSCAP. In February 2015, Snr. Capt. Zhang led a 29-person PLAN Commanding Officer delegation comprised of 29 captains and department heads on a visit to the US Navy.